Shaw at first was noncommittal. He replied that his novel must be worth $250,000, but he did not refuse the $75,000. Meanwhile, he cabled his attorneys in New York authorizing them to offer the novel to Lasky for $100,000. However, Jack Dempsey should play the villain in the piece, the playwright told his New York representatives.

Lasky is said to have refused to increase his offer but negotiations were not closed.

"Several of our judges continue to sentence addicts to a year and a day in the penitentiary. It is my judgment that to sentence an addict for a year and a day in the penitentiary in order to reestablish him in society entirely fails of its purpose. The violators of this law comprise one-third of the entire population of this institution. Of the 713 violators of the drug act received during the past fiscal year, 292 were under sentence of a year, 292 were under sentence of a year and a day. Ninety-one (or 31 per cent) were "repeaters," while only 17 per cent of those received with a longer entence were repeaters.

"The use of narcotics undermines the whole moral fibre of the white race, and they soon have no sense of responsibility. It requires at least two years for a drug addict's system to undergo a change so that he will have sufficient willpower to resist temptation. It is a well-known fact that at least 95 per cent of the drug addicts who are sentenced to a year and a day, upon their release from the penitentiory, fail to refrain from its use.

CANDLER FIELD.

Necessity of lighting Candler field, Atlanta's air port, to permit night flying within four months, was pointed out Wednesday night by Alderman William B. Hartsfield, chairman of the aviation committee of city council. If Atlanta wishes to maintain her advantage, which is self-evident because of the decision of the government to establish an air mail route between this city and New York, it must take immediate steps to provide additional facilities.

"Nature has so endowed her as to make her the logical geographical center of this section of the country. The government will bear the expense of lighting the route for flying, but each city is charged with the responsibility of properly lighting the landing field. It will cost a paltry $10,000 to light Atlanta's air port, an almost infinitesimal sum in comparison with the great advantages that will accrue to the city from a properly equipped field.

"We have just completed water lines leading to the field, and are working on a machine shop and rest rooms for the convenience of flyers, passengers and spectators. The time has come for business and financial interests to bestir themselves and take serious notice of Atlanta's conquest of the air. It is filled with tremendous import for the city's future.

"The new line will link New York in almost a direct line with Miami, IFla., and intermediate points also will be served. This is one of the greatest aeronautical strides taken in the south since the science was in its infancy. The line from New York to Atlanta will connect here with the lines of the Florida Airways corporation, which has a contract to serve this territory. On cross-examination by Attorney Marion Smith, of defense counsel, Mr. Lewis testified that he and W. O. Suttles were the only officers of the institution who spent their full time in the bank. He asserted that Mr. Manley visited the bank only at intervals, except to attend meetings of the board of directors.

The withdrawal of the $90,000 to be placed on call was sent to small country banks, Mr. Lewis declared, which was a common practice among banks of the chain.

In cross-examination of the witness in regard to appraisal of notes to which Mr. Lewis had previously testified, Mr. Smith brought out the fact that most of the notes of the bank were small, amounting to less than $500 each.

"When you took this money to the clearing houses all notes under $500 and all automobile paper were thrown out, were they not?" Mr. Smith asked. "Yes," the witness testified. "The Farmers & Traders bank is a small bank and most of your notes were for less than $500 and on automobiles, were they not?"

The witness replied in the affirmative.

Mayor Sims will attend the meeting and property owners on both sides of the creek between Peachtree road and the Chattahoochee river will be present. Most of these property owners already have agreed to make donations of land for city park purposes thus permitting a continuous park between the city's park property on the Chattahoochee river.

Have you heard the elephant trumpeting?

The famous mathematical beast every day is sending forth a call to all who need money and who are willing to stake their ingenuity and resourcefulness against others.

NO ALL-DAY SCHOOLS.

At the adjourned session of the Atlanta board of education Tuesday the former action in voting a longer school day for students in grades above the fifth, was very properly rescinded. Superintendent Sutton, who admitted he had advocated the plan under the misapprehension that it met favor with the Parent-Teacher associations, asked for the repeal of the former action. Thus, fortunately, the matter is closed, and without remaining in the indefinite, embarrassing and conflicting position of the longer day being officially authorized though not yet enforced.

The news of Lincoln's election had chado mad. The United States, under the Platt agreement, holds an economic eye on Cuba, and has to do so. Had we not sent General Crowder down there three years ago to work order out of chaos the per cent credit to federal taxpayers who will make their returns early in the year on 1926 incomes. The president had suggested a 10 per cent refund.

On the other hand, the democrats will fight for a tax reduction enactment at the short session of congress, and if they fail there is strong to the lefter and the spirit of its a seconomic eye on Cuba, and has to do so. Had we not sent General Crowder down there three years ago to work order out of chaos the Cuban people, with a moratorium on, would have keenly suffered. While the United States battleship lay leisurely in the harbor—and does yet—during the Crowder investigations—and practically financial regime—it was only to make quite sure that this nation lived up to the lefter and the spirit of its

March 4, when the terms of the new members begin.

The fact is, many among the republican leaders in congress are bitterly opposing the rebate program.

Chairman Green, of the house ways and means committee, says it is unworkable. The Mellon alternative of a credit on taxes to be collected in 1926 would not be as desirable as direct tax reduction.

The whole administration plan smacks of politics. The public has not received the suggestion with any degree of kindness.

The Cuba had a right to country, and the president of Cuba had a right to complain at such a declaration. He did not complain, however. He broke diplomatic relations instanter, and ordered the Cuban minister is and such militia as the governor might call out.

Singular enough Governor Brown could not call them "to the colors" for at that time Georgia had no state fag, as she has now. Nevertheless the "army" was organized and on January 2, following, seized Forts Pulaski and Jackson, and the United States arsenal, at Savannah. That was seventeen days before the Georgia convention adopted the secession ordinance by vote of 208 to 89.

The Georgia delegation in Congress resigned on January 23, 1861, for by that date the war was actually on.

Grim little M. Poincare always was suspected to conceal a humorist somewhere. The mien of supergravity was too perfect to be quite real. And at last M. Poincare has disclosed what a plquant jester he can be. Not many politicians could have contrived a jest with such a national appealand carried it through. To the American reader it may need a little explaining, and therefore may lose its crispness in the telling. However, it is still good. The foundation is that almost every-body in France would be glad if the deputies extended their present vacation to make it a permanency, but the deputies insist on being called back to work. M. Poincare, as premier, has to bow to this, but he is convoking them for the Jour des Morts, the day of the dead, when graves are decorated. The Duce and the Italian king are at odds. Not in an unfriendly manner, however. Mussolini wants to reextablish the death penalty. The king is against this. Victor Emmanuel says that he cannot sanction a law that was refused as protection for his father and grandfather. Mussolini insists that it is necessary to bring in the death penalty for political crimes, chiefly also because of frequent at-tempts on his own life. To justify this return to ferocity, to odious and ar-chaic penalties, the Duce cites the in-crease of political murders in Italy. crease of political murders in Italy.

COAL PRICE SOARS

ALL OVER NATION

(By The Associated Press.)

The law of supply and demand has spanned an ocean to impress upon the American consumer of coal the significance of the striking British coal miner and set up a condition to govern the purchasing power of the dollar.

Coal prices in 32 southern cities average $2 a ton higher than 30 days ago and the same price a year ago. While maining a level over the 32 cities as a group, prices in sections and individual cities show an even wider range.

For instance, coal selling at New Orleans for $10 a ton is an increase of only 50 cents over a month ago, while the same type of fuel at Louisville and Tampa represents an increase over a month ago of approximately $2. In the Florida city dealers claim that prices at the mines have increased 300 per cent in some instances.

After Atlanta Survey

T. S. Settle, field secretary of the American Playground and Recreation association, who has been in Atlanta for the past seven weeks conducting an exhaustive survey of Atlanta's recreation facilities and mapping out a year-round play program, left Wednesday night for Chicago. He will assist in framing a bill to be presented in the Illinois legislature providing for a state-wide play system to be inaugurated in that state.

Mr. Settle submitted to the park department a comprehensive survey of Atlanta's possessions at present and suggested many improvements. In accordance with his recommendations that a male director of playgrounds be named to assist Miss Dorothy Hinman, supervisor, the park board has selected George W. Tucker for this succession and the second construction of the uses of stucco will be given at 7:30 o'clock tonight under auspices of the Portland Cement association, at the chamber of commerce, by E. Atlanta architects. contractors, plasterers and homebuilders have been invited to attend the demonstration. "Sometime ago we had a letter from the athletic officials at Davidson saying that in view of the animosity between the two institutions, it was considered advisable by them to suspend athletic relations between the two institutions. In replying to that if any animosity existed it was on the part of Davidson and not Presbyterian college. Nothing further was heard of them until yesterday. "Presbyterian college is a smal college and each year Davidson has found it difficult to win over us," one member of the Presbyterian college faculty said. "They figure it is to risky to have the annual game with us, in view of the fact that they merely eked out a 3 to 0 victory this year and also when Davidson tied Wake Forest for the North Carolina championship, where Presbyterian college was victorious over Wake Forest."

Wallace Wade Maps Out Many New Plays For Crimson Tide.

Tidesmen Face Hardest Work of Season in Preparing for Turkey Day Clash in Birmingham—Coaches Expect Hard Battle When Crimsons Face Red and Black.

BY BOB MATHERNE.

NIVERSITY, ALA., November 17.—They're getting ready for Georgia as they have not prepared for any other team, this Crimson Tide of Alabama. For there's a feeling abroad that Alabama is going to need all its power when the Tide and Bulldogs meet on Thanksgiving day in Birmingham if the Tide expects to end the season undefeated for the third successiva wear by the season undefeated for the third successive year by a conference team.

The Tidesmen, in their best shape of the season now, held an inside practice Monday while the freshmen were oiling up the Georgia plays. And today the varsity went at those impromptu Georgians. And so they will the rest of the week, although a great part of the time will be devoted to smoothing out the many rough spots noticed in their play last Saturday, although it is hard to see by the average layman exactly what rough spots there were Saturday, when the Tide swamped Florida, 49-0.

New plays have been mapped out by Wallace Wade to strengthen the Tide. More stress of blocking and cylinders as they are likely to do. tackling is being done. of winning the conference championship even though Georgia beat her:

"Champions don't get beat!"

And that's the feeling predominating among the Tide outfit. A real champion should not be one who loses a game and the Tide hope to eat their supper Thanksgiving night as undefeated champions of the southern conference, Georgia ambitions of the present to the contrary.

All ideas likely to lead to over-confidence on the part of the Crimson players were quickly erased from their mind after Coach Russ Cohen, who has scouted the Georgia eleven twice this season, talked to the Tide Monday afterpoon in a skull practice. Smithies To Leave Tonight for Battle With Knoxville High

All Atlanta Prep Teams To Play Away From Home-Boys' High Meets Lanier in Macon—Cadets Go to Chattanooga for Game With Fort Oglethorpe.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Tech High has a tough game on its schedule this week in the person of City High of Knoxville, Tenn. The Smithies have realized this fact, and practice has been hard and quite lengthy. Coach Tolbert will use the same young backfield that was in action against Riverside last Saturday, and hopes to get better results.

In the line, Wade will continue to used at center and Fountain will be back at tackle, in case his injured leg should heal enough to allow him to play. If not, the Smithy mentor will probably use Tippet, who played brilliantly in the Riverside game.

The squad will entrain tonight for Knoxville, arriving some time Friday for the game.

Boys' High at Work. Boys' High at Work.

Boys' High is hard at work for the Lanier High game in Macon, Friday, and a spirit of victory pervades at the Purple camp. The boys all say that they are going to win from the Poet outfit, and go through their practice periods with snap and vigor. Shelby Coffee, pivot man of the Purple eleven, will not be available for duty and Terrell will take his place. Outside of this change the Boys' High lineup will be the same, with Reagin back at guard, having completely recovered from an attack of influenza.

The Purple would do well to be prepard for an aerial attack, for in little Tommy Moran, Poet quarterback, Lanier has one of the best forward passers in the state. He takes his time, and his chunks are accurate, which accounted for the Macon team scoring three touchdowns on University in their game here last week. Vernon Smith, captain and end on the Macon team, is one of the best all-round players that we have ever seen on a prep team, and will be a continual threat to Boys' High. Corbin, the Poets' all G. I. A. A. halfback, will probably be in action against the local eleven.

Cadets Journey Again.

Cadets Journey Again. G. M. A. will be out of town again this week, heading north for Chattanooga and a game with Fort Oglethorpe. Last week in Rome, G. M. A. was held to a 6-to-6 tie. Coach Morrow has worked hard with his team since that game, and scrimmages with Fort McPherson have helped to put the Cadets in good shape.

shape. Campbell, hard-hitting fullback, is Campbell, hard-hitting fullback, is primed for action, and is expected to give the Cavalrymen plenty of trouble during the game. Sorrel, captain of the College Park team, is an able assistant to Campbell when it comes to ramming a line. To run the ends, the Cadets have Mott, who has given several good exhibitions of circling the ends on local grids. This will be G. M. A.'s last game of the season. Decatur will also close its season this week, playing Canton High at Canton. The DeKalb county team has had a good season and was the first steam to overcome Gainesville High, undefeated for four years. Decatur was defeated last week by Marietta, in a hard-fought game, and is picked as a favorite in Friday's battle at Canton.

Many points of interest concerning girls playing girls' rules were brought out at the meeting. The strong reasons for the association's action were that girls' colleges and Y. W. C. A.'s throughout the country have adopted girls' rules. It was pointed out that the association had to depend on the schools for its material and if they expected to grow it woud be necessary to adopt girls' rules and fall in line with the leading institutions of the country.

All on-lookers at the workouts of the Red and Blue have been harred from the field by Coach Homer Hazel. During this restriction new tactics are being practiced which are calculated to upset the old foes. The Aggies have during past years rompeled over the Ole Miss teams, with few exceptions, but this year, things are looking different to Coach Hazel.

Rattles and Footballs.

If Sam Saltzman and his cohorts have their way the babies of the future will be given footballs to play with in place of rattles and kiddie cars. And we fully agree with Sam in this respect.

Not that we would rob the infants of their time-worn pre rogatives, but after watching the youngsters of the sand lot league in action at Piedmont park Wednesday afternoon we cannot help but wonder at what age the lads play with their toys. Neither can we understand how any able-bodied youth can keep of the field when he sees those midgets in action.

The Southern league of the sand lot outfit met enmasse at Piednont to select an all-star team to play the Junior Military academy team of Bloomington Springs, Tenn., in a post-season game at Grant field on November 26, and anyone who thinks these lads do not play football as it should be played should go out and take a look.

The weight of the players is limited to 110 pounds and there were several in action Wednesday afternoon at Piedmont with a flatiron under each arm.

And the surprising thing is that they play football in a scientific manner. If you watch the youngsters in action you will see a perfectly executed jump shift, perfect blocking, good interference, accurate passing and all the other things you will see when any two college teams meet. There could not be any more fight in any university game than can be seen when the 100-pounders face each other. We would suggest to anyone who is in search of a good "kick," take a trip to Grant field

O'Keefe and Bass at It Today.

While we are on the subject of youngsters in football we could not neglect a word about the Bass-O'Keefe game today for the championship of the junior high circuit.

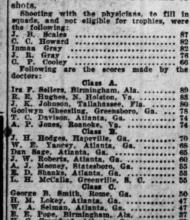

O'Keefe has an uncrossed goal line to defend and Bass has a championship to defend, and there you have it. The two teams will put up the greatest battle of the year today and it will be worth anybody's money to watch the youngsters.

Petrels Riding to Tough Test.

Oglethorpe's Petrels will be put to the supreme test of the season Saturday when they face the Mercer Bears at Spiller's field, and we have enough confidence in Coach Harry Robertson and the Petrels to believe that they will face the test without flinching.

The Birds are not only facing a traditionally hard game, but they will face the battle minus the services of Cy Bell, the hero of the Tech game. There is one thing, however, that the Petrels possess in more than sufficient quantity—some call it nerve and some call it fortitude, but we choose for this occasion to call it just plain "guts." Not a nice word but most expression when it is applied to that quality which goes to make a football team outplay another team even when the others are

Cy Bell, the lad who fell from grace in a moment of re-laxation, was a sportsman even in his dilemma. He showed the result of good training both on the football field and at home by coming forward and admitting his transgression when, we are told, the coach was not even aware of his acts. To be sure—the loss of Bell will be a blow to the Petrels, but we advise against making any wagers on Mercer because of this blow to the Peachtree road lads. They thrive on misfortune under the tutelage of Harry Robertson, who serves them a fine gridiron medicine of mixed football and "guts."

Douglas, Ga., November 17.—(P)—The cure for lynching lies in speedy, certain punishment for lynchers, rather than in the severity of punishment, according to Judge Harry Reed, of superior court, who today sentenced nine men to prison for complicity in a lynching death.

retuna could not be made applicable to payments due next March.

Representative Garner has proposed a program to cut the corporation tax from 13 1-2 per cent to 11 per cent and to repeal all "nuisance taxes," including the levies on automobiles, admissions and dues.

This plan would involve a saving of about $400,000,000 or more to the tax payers, he insisted today and it could be safely accomplished with a surplus of almost $500,000,000 in sight for this year. He would make no change in the individual income taxes at this time.

"Why should we give back to the corporations, including the Aluminum Company of America, taxes which they already have collected from the consumers?" Garner asked. "We are going to have a surplus actually of almost $500,000,000. Lets make some scientific and permanent tax revision."

Washington, November 17.—(P)—The seemingly unalterable opposition of leading democratic tax experts to the administration's proposal for a tax credit on next year's income tax payments served today to impress republican leaders with a certain sense of hopelessness for the program.

"Permanet tax reduction or nothing," was the ultimatum delivered by Representative Garner, democrat, of Texas, ranking minority member of the house ways and means committee, through which all fiscal legislation must pass. With general democratic antagonism such as this sponsors of the plan see no rosy prospects of putting it through in the brief short session to begin December 6.

One optimistic note was sounded, however, by Chairman Madden, of the house appropriations committee, who said he approved Secretary Mellon's suggestion that the proposed credit should be raised from 12 1-2 per cent and that he saw no reason why the refund could not be made applicable to payments due next March.

In addition to the amount paid on membership dues a general offering was given by many present, this latter amount to be applied on the scholarship which the Atlanta association offers yearly to some worthy student at The grand ball and president's reception of the Southern Medical convention, which assembled thousands of visiting doctors and their wives as well as their local hosts and hostesses Wedneday evening at the auditoriumarmory, made an elaborate and brilliant climax to the twentieth annual session of this organization, which has been in session in Atlanta for the past four days.

marked the opening business session today of the thirty-third annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The meeting, of ficially designated "the Jefferson Davis convention" by unanimous vote of the delegates this morning, got under way slowly, but at none of the three sessions was there anything "like hatred and bitterness and malice." which Mrs. St. John A. Lawton, of South Carolina, president general, declared has no place under the stars and bars. The three sessions of the convention today were taken up principally with reports of officers and committees. An injunction to the daughters to "avoid entangling alliances" was the keynote of the report of the president general, in which she made four recommendations. Two of these were approved by the convention and action of the others was postponed. One of those approved authorized the president general to appoint a committee on historical foundation which shall have the matter entirely in charge and the other provided for appointment of two pages annually to carry the United States flag and the stars and bars of the Confederacy on all occasions.

Richmond Memorial Fund.

Richmond Memorial Fund.

An outstanding development was the announcement before the convention by Mrs. E. E. Moffitt, $0-year-old president of the Matthew Fountain Maury association of the pledging of all money necessary for the crection of the memorial in Richmond to "the pathfinder of the seas." Thirty thousand dollars of the fund was raised by popular subscription, it was announced and $30.000 more was underwritten by local business men.

Other reports presented today were those of the second vice president general, Mrs. W. C. N. Merchant, of Virginia; recording secretary general, Mrs. A. J. Smith, of New York, and the corresponding secretary general, Richmond Memorial Fund, Mrs. A. J. Smith, of New York, and the corresponding secretary general, Mrs. Fred C. Kolman, of Louisiana.

The report of the treasurer general, Mrs. W. A. Rumsey, of Arkansas, elicited the most prolonged applause of the meeting thus far and was accepted by a rising vote of delegates.

The report of the finance committee, read by Mrs. P. H. Lane, of Pennsylvania, chairman, also was presented at the afternoon session was opened with memorial services to daughters, Confederate Veterans and Sons of Veterans. Miss Decca Lamar West, of Texas, read the memorial to the United Daughters of the Confederacy and special memorials to Miss Doriska Gautreaux and Mrs. J. Pinckney Smith, of Louisiana, were read by Mrs. Charles Granger and Mrs. Peter Youree, both of Louisiana, respectively. Mrs. Charles McDowell read a special memorial to Mrs. Annie Whitfield, of Alabama, while the memorial to Confederate veterans and sons was special by Mrs. E. Wilson Lincoln, of special memorial to Mrs. Annie Whitfield, of Alabama, while the memorial to Confederate veterans and sons was read by Mrs. E. Wilson Lincoln, of Massachusetts. The roll call of states and the placing of flowers in the wreath showed a large number of daughters to have died during the year.

A Confederate flag was presented to the convention at the memorial services by Mrs. Norman V. Randolph in memory of Mrs. Alice McGill Drewry. of Richmond.

The evening session of the convention was given over to the presentation of reports of division presidents.

Large Delegations Present.

An outstanding feature of the "roll call by states and acceptance of flags" was the size of the delegations from the states, notably California, which reported 14 delegates having traveled more than 3,000 miles to attend the first meeting of the daughters to be held in the old capital of the Confederacy in many years. AN INTERESTING CONVERSATION.

Dorinda experienced a pang of sympathy for Norma. Poor Normal "Would a wife like Norma suit you?" Dorinda asked, David grinned at her.

"What is this? Psychoanalysis?"

"No, just an interesting conversation. But you needn't answer my questions if you don't want to."

"O, I don't mind. Only I'm not on very familiar ground, you see. Chad and Bryant can talk this kind of thing to you by the hour—"

"They have," she said briefly.

"I'll bet they have," he muttered with sudden distaste. "It's their favorite indoor sport." The thought of those conversations was extremely distasteful to him. "Well," he ended philosophically, "I'll be mighty tame after them."

"Just the same, Pd like you tell me your ideal of marriage and home life."

He laughed, again rather self-consciously.
"I don't know that I can," he admitted. "I've always taken it for granted I'd have them some day, but I haven't got down to picturing ideals."

"Suppose you do it now." As he hesitated, she added almost irritably, "Good heavens, it's something to talk about, isn't it?"
"That's so," he acquiesced. He understood. She was feeling as restless as he felt. The nurse was out. Norma had gone, leaving her depressed; even Freckles had deserted her for an ecstatic run through the night with Johnnie. If it would amuse her to take the scalpel to him in lieu of a better subject, he'd indulge her whim; and since he had to talk he'd talk straight.

"I'm greedy," he coolly admitted. "When the time comes, I want the roses and the raptures and all the rest of it. I want to be mad about the girl and have her mad about me, but I don't want—and, so help me, I'll never have—one of the brainless type that has only one interest in life and that her husband. I want my wife to have a lot of interests all subordinate to me, of course," he added with a his grin. "I want her to be a good hostess and enjoy entertaining our friends. I want her to be a darned good mother, willing to have three or four children—I'd like two boys and two girls—and to give them a lot of time. I want her to be a good sport, the kind that instinctively plays the game and stands up under the shocks of life." He saw the deep flush that combined so unbecomingly with the slight remaining congestion in her face, but he went on doggedly. She had asked for this. Now let her take it.
"I want her tolerant and understanding but with high ideals—willing to let others do pretty much what they choose, but with definite standards for her own conduct. I want her pretty, healthy, popular and kind. I want all these things, but I know I'll never get them," he added gloomily; and ended with the smile that so warmed his face, "and if I do get them, the poor girl will spend her life wondering what the deuce she has got in exchange. Now you can describe your ideal," he added kindly. "Turn about is fair pulay."

She shrugged indifferent shoulders.
"I've told you I haven't any ideal," she said, "and that I have a horror of the whole business. But sometimes it amuses me to hear other people talk."
"You'll be pretty lonely when you grow old if you don't marry," he sagely pointed out. "I've never felt that the society of an old man would console me then," she said, forgetting the unique position in which they stood. Both, indeed, had quite forgotten it during this edifying discussion and now, remembering it, they looked at each other blankly. In the mind of each the same thought rose obtrusively. It didn't matter, for the whole affair would be ended in a few weeks more. The realization made for reflection, David's taking the form of a rehearsed interview with Hatch about the divorce and the best way to get it. It was going to be a nasty mess any way one looked at it—a choice of applying for annulment at the end of the truce, on the ground that they had never lived together, or of placing David in the position of deserting a bride of six weeks. The former course meant giving to the public all the details of their agreement—nice stuff for the newspapers! He winced at the thought. He'd have to let Hatch decide what must The prospect of giving all the facts to Hatch was acutely unpleasant. Miss Allen breezed in and was gratified by the pleasure her reappearance gave her two patients.

"And now you must both go to your beds," she announced after the reception was over. "It's almost ten o'clock and you should have started half an hour ago. So say good night prettily, Mr. Goddard, and

David said it, and trotted. He was glad to go. But the problem of the grounds for divorce accompanied him to his pillow and sat there while he continued to consider it. Without doubt Hatch would decide that he, David, must be the victim. A straight divorce on the ground of desertion and without any confession that the marriage was merely a form, would probably be best for the girl—that is, it would be best for almost any other girl. But would it be best for Dorinda? Considering their respective reputations, wouldn't it give her an additional black eye? Wouldn't scandal mongers whisper that the town's model young man had discovered something about his bride's past or present. He turned restlessly, twisted his injured side, and groaned. Hatch would have to decide. And, thank heaven, Hatch and not he himself would have to give Dorinda some idea of the kind of questions she would have to answer, the sort of suspicions that would be aroused.

What an odd creature she was! Talk about women that keep a man guessing! She could give a man a new guess every week until doomsday. He didn't know yet how to make her out. He only knew that in certain moods she was rather wonderful. Those moods, for instance, in which she slipped her hand into his, or stood with her hands pressed against his chest, looking up at him. Merely habit, of course. He had seen her do these things with Jim and Chad. Still, they were mighty taking.

By breakfast time things had brightened again. To their surprise, both had slept well when they really settled down to it; and a remark Dorinda made as she poured the coffee started a new and agreeable

"I should think you'd get horribly tired of being shut up with m and looking at this discolored face," she said rather abruptly.
"I never see it," he told her.

She looked at him uncertainly. "You mean," she interpreted, "that you're thinking of something

The Day in Finance General Motors Advances on Heavy Short Covering After Sales at Same Price as Steel

New York, November 17.—Trading in stocks today was on a heavier stock to be retired.

Unless all signs fail, the railroads scale, with the price trend upward. At one time early in the day, steel common and General Motors sold at the same price. But the last named stock began to shoot ahead on heavy short covering. It is no secret in Wall street that the largest outstanding short interest in the stock market is in the motor shares with General Motors no exception. Professional traders in the stock market, however, ignore favorable statistics, when the quotations coming out on the ticker go against them. While running to cever today, many professional traders short of General Motors, declared their intention of again going short as soon as the stock sold ex-dividend. If enough traders do this, these traders may again be wrong, market-wise, although again right, statistically.

Standard Bonds at 102.

Without the price known at which the new Standard Oil of New Jersey 5 per cent 20-year bonds would be offered, these bonds sold early today when issued at 102. At 102 a 20-year 5 per cent bond offers an income return of only 4.84 per cent, reflecting the high cerdit of the issuing company and also expectations of easy money market conditions. Evidently Wall street expected the new Standard Oil bonds to be offered to the holders of the called preferred stock at par, or 85, if all of the $115 at which the preferred stock is to be redeemed is used to buy the new bonds. At 85 a 5 per cent 20-year bond offers an income return of 6.32 per cent. By the time $150,000,000 of the preferred stock had been so exchanged criticism hecame so strong that the refunding operation was abandoned.

New York, November 17.—Cables this morning were slightly better than due and private advices report a decidedly better feeling in Manchester which anticipates a good trade once the coal strike is out of the way. It seems to be taken for granted that it will be settled but no definite information is as yet available. The market here was steady, advancing again on trade selling of the near positions with only a moderate amount of southern selling. The weather has been bad in the central portion of the beit, attracting some attention owing to an improvement of basis on the better grades. The coming government estimate on Monday seems to be attracting less attention than usual, although it is assumed it will again be somewhat larger. The weekly weather report today is rather unfavorable owing to the bad weather mentioned above. The first notice day for December is only a week off on November 24. The trade short interest is being rapidly reduced but we think there is still a considerable interest open in that delivery. The market displays a very steady undertone and unless it is upset by the estimate on Monday, it would seem that considerable cotton will pass into consumption at anything like present level of prices. HOGS-Duil. Coffee.

There were a number of 2-point declines, the list including American Agricultural Chemical preferred. American Locomotive, Federal Light and Traction, General Asphalt, International Harvester, Pierce Arrow and Timken Roller Bearing.

The early run-up in General Motors was stimulated by buying for the account of "shorts" who were disinclined to pay the regular and extra dividends of $5.75 which come off the stock on Friday. Radio Corporation common and preferred touched record high levels at 111-2 and 513-4, respectively.

New York, November 17.—(P)—
Pronounced reactionary tendencies developed toward the close of today's stock market on selling presumably inspired by unfavorable trade reports. These included the publication of weekly steel trade reviews calling attention to a further falling off in orders and the first drop in composite pig iron prices since July, a cut in mid-continent crude prices, and a sharp decline in freight traffic in the week ended November 6, which was explained, however, by the wid-spread observance of election day as a holiday.

The market worked upward during the early trading, largely in response to a lowering of call money rates. Merchandise, motor, chemical, railroad, textife, and tobacco shares presented several points of strength, but most of the gains quickly melted away on the appearance of selling pressure.

Steel Drops Three Points.

U. S. Steel common, which had sold as high as 1513-8, broke to 1471-2 for a net loss of more than 3 points.

While receptive conditions were ideal last night and the Dial Twister enjoyed concerts from a number of stations far and near, we received a letter in today's mail that we want to publish:

Insofar as using the column for advertising purposes is concerned, we disclaim any intention along that line and deny vehemently that that is what our column is for. Ed King and Del Lyon sent this Radiola "20" out from their store; C. E. Andrews, of the Southern Motors Equipment company, sent me the Vesta "A" unit, and so on down the line. This column is wide open and we are going to tell the world when anybody sends in anything to be tried out, and to make this good, we are going to tell the things don't work right, just the salme as we tell of the things that do what they are supposed to do.

However, there is no good to be accomplished by preaching so wel'll give you Makum Squeak's letter as is:

"Dear Bill:

"I've been readin' your literary efforts lately under th' headin' of 'Radio-ing, the Air Waves' in Th' Constitution, and By Heck I got so interested in seeing what you had to say that I got up this mornin' at 5:40 say that I got up this mornin' at 5:40 just to see what was new in reception. Went out in the eold and found that the boy hadn't arrived, so went down and poked up the fire and by the time it was burning enough to melt the icicles. I heard the plop of the paper as it hit against the screen door. I don't know what the screen door is there for, but it's there. Before I forget it, I want to know if you are any relation to Al Smith, the democratic candidate for president, perhaps? Even so,' as Cam says in the 'funny' sheet, it don't make any difference when it comes to 'Radiolifference when it comes to 'Radio

"What I want to know is whether or not your column is an advertisement for Lyon & King. Most times I think it is, and sometimes I think you are writin' just to fill the space, and feel somewhat grateful to Ed King because he sent you that Radiola you have been boosting so much. Well, I don't know much about a Radiola, except by hear-say, but if you think that is th' only set that will get San Antonio, or Torouto, or any other distant gab station, you've got another distant gab station, you've got another argument comin'.

"Between you and Marie McPherson, any tube set of, say one or two tubes, with ear phone should be able to get any of the stations you have mentioned in your exuberant state of mind durin' th' past several days without any trouble, under ordinary receptive conditions. Now I've got a Squeakidine set, made and presented receptive conditions. Now I've got a Squenkidine set, made and presented to me by Sam Speak and Mont Dine of the firm of Squeak & Dine com-pany, one of Atlanta's popular and progressive radio distributors, and alhough the set didn't cost me much, it is a humdinger. On a good night I can get the local stations just as clear and distinct, you would think the entertainers were in th' next room instead of three miles distant.

"Before I stop I have another jaw bone to pick with you. In this morning's paper you growl about some kid ing's paper you growl about some kid with a regenerative outfit practicing the scale just for pure cussedness. I don't believe it is a youngster. These so-called youngsters are more likely bald-headed grandfathers, who don't know how to tune any kind of a set. I have six different kinds of receiving sets and can make any one of them whistle and squeal to make the tremors run up and down your the tremors run up and down your spine, but I don't. There is no need of making these outlandish noises, and my belief is that it is not kids, ut grown-ups who are making all the disturbances you mention. The average kid knows more about radio in a age kid knows more about radio in a week than most men will ever know.

"I went with my kid to a radio convention held here in Atlanta two two years ago. I don't know what they were talking about, but those kids did, and were lapping up what the speakers were saying with ears and eyes, and they knew what the speakers were talking about. No, Bill, you may be sure it was no kid that disturbed your slumbers last night, but on the contrary, it was probably the owner, of a Radiola super set that some grown up was trying to make register when "It was a plain c.se of suicide," said Deputy Coroner Michael Brown, after an examination of the body. Detective Lieutenant Charles Dulleau said, that death was caused by one of the most deadly of poisons.

Liver at Bohemian Club. Sterling was born in Sag Harbor, Long Island, N. Y., December 1, 1869. Educated at St. Charles college, Mary-land, he came to California when a young man in 1896, married Carrie Rand, of Oakland, who since has died. He had lived at the Bohemian club for years.

The finding of Sterling's body by the poet's valet came just before two other distinguished writers were about to call on him. H. L. Mencken, who arrived here Monday as Sterling's guest, and Gouverneur Morris, were preparing to leave their hotel quarters when informed by the United News of Sterling's death.

"This is terrible," said Mencken.
"I knew he was ill but the doctors didn't think it was very serious. I came up here especially to see him. We were going to have all sorts of good times."

"Lately, George had been writing ballads," Mencken went on in his rapid-fire method of talking. "I have bought some of them for the American Mercury. He has written articles about Jonquin Miller, Ambrose Bierce and, to show you his range he had just turned in one about Kid McCoy, the old-time fighter. He called it "A First-Class Fighting Man."

PROBE DEMANDED BILL WORK BEGUN

Washington, November 17.—Repeating rumors that scalping in tickets for the Army-Navy game is going on here within the capitol as well as in Chicago, Representative Hamilton Fish. New York republican, said today that he may demand an investigation of the whole situation in the house as soon as congress reconves December 6.

Such an investigation would be in the hands of a special committee, which it is presumed would call internal revenue agents who are working on the case in Chicago. The internal revenue bureau has yet received no report from Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, collector at Chicago, but this is not unexpected, as collectors proceed in such matters on their own initiative, and usually do not report until the case is cleared up.

"I have some personal knowledge of the situation," Fish said.

"Also I have heard that secretaries of some congressmen have, without the knowledge of their employers, obtained tickets for them and turned over to speculators."

A number of members of congress have complained privately to the navy department about failure to get their full allotment of tickets for the game.

Secondary RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washinton, November 17.—Republican leaders in congress are at work in carly to get the annual appropriation of their way before the Christmas holidays, the object the Christmas holidays, the object the Public of forestall any insurgents who at the tempt to filibuster for an extra session.

President Coolidge opposes an extra session after March 4. The only way one can likely come about will be through obstructive tactics against the annual appropriation bills. If these are not passed by March 4 congress would have to be called back to pass the measures so that the big government departments would have to be called back to pass the measures so that the big government departments would have to be called back to pass the measures so that the big sovernment of the house of the situation, Tish said.

These bills all originate in the house. Chairman Madden of the house of the propriation sommitt have complained privately to the navy department about failure to get their full allotment of tickets for the game. They sent checks for six tickets and have received only four, according to their objections. Navy department officials say there are not enough to go around as Chicago authorities are handling large numbers of tickets.

The old haphazard method of bat-tling both in the house and senate over each item has largely disappear-ed. Most of the appropriation bills now go through with little debate. The scrutiny is only casual. This results in prompt passage whereas in the pre-budget days the machinery moved pre-budget days the machinery moved so slowly that congress usually pulled up on March 4 with an undigested mass of supply bills to be squeezed through. leaders in control had decided he should have it. Then a senate in vestigating committee disclosed that one of Lowden's political heelers had, on his own initiative, given $2,500 to a prospective convention delegate. Though Lowden knew nothing about it, the incident was used to beat him in the convention and the nomination went to Harding.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER. (United News Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, November 17.—Former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, is again brought into the picture as a presidential possibility by the St. Louis declaration of 80 farm organizations representing 12 states which dorse his farm relief plan embodied in the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which has failed twice in relief bill which has failed twice in congress.

Lowden has been reckoned as a potential candidate ever since he identified himself with the farm revolt several years ago. He probably stands as the next choice after Coolidge of a number of influential republican politicians. At the moment, he probably is not strong enough to take the nomination away from Coolidge. But in an open field with the president out of it his chances would be better than those of anyone else in the republican party at this moment.

Significance Grasped.

The significance of the St. Louis declaration was instantly grasped by one prominent republican senator here.

"It's political so far as Mr. Lowden is concerned," he said. "You won't find that Lowden ever applied his farm plan to any of his business enterprises.

"He proposes a farm board of 12

Passage Predicted.

"I voted against the McNary-Haugen bill. I went out to my people expecting to be jumped on. But I told them that the McNary-Haugen bill proposed to set up a board of 12 men at $10,000 a year and that the 12 men were in Washington waiting for the jobs. That was the end of it."

This senator, however, thought the bill would pass at the long session of congress beginning in December 1927, just before the 1928 elections.

Lowden came close to receiving the republican nomination in 1920. The

Leaders of English Church VATICAN SCORED BY HIGH DIGNITARIES Denounce Annulment Action

BY CHARLES M. M'CANN checked by the recent challenge of the vatican, some believe.

United News Staff Correspondent. London, November 17.—High WEDDING ANNULMENT church and high society are feeling INTERNATIONAL ISSUE. with increasing force the repercus sions which have followed annulment vate affairs of Consuelo Vanderbil by the Catholic church of the mar and her ex-husband, the Duke of Marlriage of the Duke of Marlborough to the former Consuelo Vanderbilt.

Resentment over the vatican's action in annulling an Episcopal mar-AT CITY CLUB LUNCH risge has taken various forms, accompanied by speculation over the effect it may have on church relations generally. Society enters the controversy with speculation over whether other prin-cipals in broken marriages encouraged by the success of the Marlboroughs, may seek to obtain annulments from Rome. The duke thus far has refused to be drawn into the controversy and re mains secluded at Blenheim castle.

Condemn Vatican Action. English high church dignitaries are hastening to join Bishop Manning, of New York, in condemning the vatican's action.

"The extraordinary action of the Catholic church is astonishing and bewildering," said the Rev. William Hartley Carnegie, canon of Westminster, in admitting the displeasure of high churchmen.

"If it were allowed to pass unchallenged it would destroy the very sanctity of marriage and would make all marriages precarious. I am supporting Bishop Manning's protest cordially and I am certain that the whole English church will agree with me that the idea is revolting."

"What basis for marriage remains," the bishop asked; "if after so many years the evidence of some dead ele-ment, of some outside influence, can destroy its sacred bonds? Such in-credible action cannot be too strongly condemned. You can be sure that the Church of England will be unanimous in denouncing the action that has been taken."

Churchmen high and low admit that the Catholic church has struck a serious blow at the movement for reunion of the Church of England and the corresponding church in the United States with the church at Rome. This "Anglo-Catholic" movement, which advocates rejoining the Episcopal church with the Roman church and acceptance by the high church of the Roman ritual, cannot but he effected and possibly definitely out be effected and possibly definitely
